The 54th meeting of the International Continence Society – ICS 2024 Madrid – provides healthcare professionals with an unparalleled opportunity to make a real difference to the lives of people suffering from incontinence.

Leading global experts present workshops, round table discussions and state-of-the-art sessions as part of a comprehensive scientific programme full of the latest breakthroughs in treatment & technology. Attendees will also have the chance to network with peers, exchange ideas and share best practices, which has proved to be a popular element of our previous meetings; to learn from others, hear their stories and experiences, and gain insight into the latest advancements in incontinence care.

The ICS Annual Meeting is also multi-disciplinary and brings together experts from around the world, which means there's no better opportunity for healthcare professionals interested in treating incontinence patients than ICS 2024 Madrid.
